Big city or small town?

- 1 Joel is a 15-year-old boy from Miami. He's writing to his friend in Germany about life in a big city. Read his text.

Hey!

How are you? You asked me in your last email about Miami and what life is like here. Well, I love it but not everyone does. Miami is a big city, but not the biggest in the US. Still, the houses are really big and there are lots of people.

There is always something to do here. I really like that about big cities. There are so many cinemas or other interesting places. I go and watch football with my big sister from time to time. We are of course fans of the Miami Dolphins, they're really famous. Sometimes my friends and I don't want to spend any money. Then we just hang out and watch people walking by. That can be interesting too, because there are so many different people in the city.

Miami is close to the beach so sometimes we go swimming. The summers here are so hot - sometimes it's really necessary to go swimming! And it's better than being inside the house all the time. We don't have a garden here. We have to go by bike, though, because public transportation isn't the best here. Funny, don't you think? I heard that in Europe people move to big cities so that they don't have to drive everywhere by car. But in Miami they have to do that anyway.

Anyway, that's life in Miami. What about your town?

Talk to you soon,

Joel

My mother sometimes wants to move to Sarasota. It's a small town in the west of Florida. She says that it is much safer there and you get to know more people. In Miami you can watch lots of people, but you don't talk to them. I don't even know our neighbors, I only know what they look like.

Anyway, that's life in Miami. What about your town?

Talk to you soon,

Joel
